2. Weekly Contact Frequency

Throughout the capstone period, I maintained consistent communication with my supervisor. This was done through messages on email and Google chat space, especially to share updates, express concerns, and ask for meeting times. Below is a screenshot to show it clearly:

Hi Noella, can you book a 30-minute slot on my calendar today at 4 PM? You can continue working on the proposal in the meantime, and note all the questions so that we discuss them in the meeting

23 May, 10:26

Thank you, sir. However, according to your Calendar, you are unavailable today, and there is no way to book those 30 minutes.

Kevin Sebinez 23 May, 10:38

You can use my google calendar (not the calendly slots). I believe 4 pm to 4:30 pm is free on my end

Kevin Sebinez 23 May, 15:16

Hi Noella, unfortunately, I won't be available at the time we scheduled our check-in

If you'll be available, we can have it tomorrow 2:30 pm or 4:30 pm

Hello, sir. I hope you are doing well. Sir, I encountered a problem with my PC while working on the frontend of my project, and I am now taking it to the technician. Therefore, I am requesting an extension of the deadline, as I do not know when my PC will be working again. Thank you.

Hello, sir. I hope you are doing well. Could you please provide an extension for this final version of the solution? On my side, it's hard to be done on June 27, at least by July 2.

Thursday, 26 Jun

Kevin Sebinez 26 Jun, 11:23

Hi Noella, I'll see what I can do with the deadline

In the meantime, kindly book a slot with me so that we can go through what you're doing and the challenges you're facing
